Dear Sirs,

I am writing to tell you that I do not want the levels of Lake Huron or Lake Michigan artificially raised. I have lived just north of Holland on the lakeshore since 1968 and have experienced two very high lake level periods. Both times have resulted in extensive damage to the shoreline and property and costly installments of shore protection. It's one thing to fight Mother Nature but quite another to deal with man's manipulation of the lake levels. When and where will you stop?
